

O'Dell Announced as New Miami Springs Golf and Country Club Director

Press release date: 2013-04-16

MIAMI SPRINGS, FL – The City of Miami Springs has named Paul O'Dell as the new Director of the Miami Springs Golf and Country Club. O'Dell brings with him more than 25 years of golf industry marketing and administrative experience throughout the South, including the Brookhaven Country Club (Dallas, TX), High Vista Country Club (Mills River, NC), Doral Park Country Club (Doral, FL), the Golf Club of Miami (Miami, FL) and Turnberry Isle Resort and Club (Aventura, FL).

He has a proven track record of increasing membership sales, rounds of golf played, tournaments, maintaining operations above and beyond PGA standards, budgeting, cash flow and major capital improvement oversight. A former resident of Miami Springs, he is bilingual and currently resides in Miami Lakes with his family.

O'Dell comes on board during the week of April 15th, and is eager to meet the issues and challenges of MSGC. He says "I am very excited about the possibilities and the potential of this great historic course, and providing our guests with a great golf experience."

City Manager Ron Gorland states "Paul is bringing a great deal of successful business know-how in golf course and country club management to Miami Springs. We are fortunate to have such a consummate professional of his caliber and reputation in charge of our Golf and Country Club, and we all look forward to working with him."

About the Miami Springs Golf and Country Club

First opened in 1923, the Miami Springs Golf and Country Club was home to the original Greater Miami Open from 1925 to 1955. The oldest municipal golf course in South Florida, it is owned and operated by the city of Miami Springs. A unique example of living history and heritage tourism, its 217 acres offer an opportunity to walk in the footsteps of legends like Sam Snead and Gene Sarazen for the thousands of golfers who play here every year.
